

Call for Nominations, Proposals and Applications

Participants of the 2004 Clay Summer School.

Nominations for Clay Research Fellows, Clay Liftoff Scholars and for participants in the Clay Research Academy are accepted once a year. Nominations should be sent to the attention of Elizabeth Abraham at nominations@claymath.org

They can also be mailed to

Clay Mathematics Institute
One Bow Street
Cambridge, MA 02138

Principal funding decisions for Senior Scholars are made based on August 1 nominations; nominations received at other times will be considered as funds permit.

Nomination Deadlines

Senior Scholars: August 1
Research Fellows: October 30
Liftoff Scholars: February 15
Research Academy: February 4

The Clay Mathematics Institute invites proposals for conferences and workshops, its annual summer school, and book projects. Proposals will be judged on their scientific merit, probable impact, and potential to advance mathematical knowledge. The Scientific Advisory Board generally meets four times a year and will consider proposals at each of these meetings. Most decisions, however, are made in early fall; complete material for consideration at that meeting should be received by August 1.

Proposals need not be long, but should address the scientific rationale, benefit, and impact of the project. A budget and the standard cover sheet should be attached and sent to the attention of Elizabeth Abraham at CMI encourages short pre-proposals consisting of the cover sheet and a letter expressing interest and commenting on the value of the project for the mathematical community.

Please see: <http://www.claymath.org/proposals/>

Noteworthy proposals will be considered at other times. However, most funding decisions are made with respect to the deadlines below.
